Why wait to go wireless?

Ramp up productivity across your entire agency by going wireless with Dell.

Wireless technology is everywhere today. But for federal agencies, taking advantage of the technology is not an easy task. Office infrastructures are increasingly complex, network security threats are constant and budgets are tighter than ever. The good news is that with Dell on your side, these challenges can be readily addressed.

With wireless solutions from Dell, you can empower employees to work far beyond the traditional office. As a result, field agents and public officials can have access to real-time information. Dell's industry-standard security features are designed to safeguard valuable data. Plus, our experts in Dell Services can help alleviate any wireless implementation concerns. This makes Dell the perfect partner for embracing the wireless revolution.

Visit www.dell.com/fed/mobility04 to take our mobility quiz and help your employees be more productive now.

Finally, your agency can enjoy the benefits of wireless technology.

By going wireless with Dell, your agency can deliver a higher quality of service. Employees can conduct their job duties away from the office, enjoying convenient access to the network from virtually anywhere.* The result can be increased productivity. Staying connected while on the go provides new opportunities for collaboration, whether it involves sharing files, exchanging emails or using the intranet. The benefits of using Dell's wireless solutions also include:

- Robust security
- Fast access
- Affordable products
- State-of-the-art technology
- Flexible connectivity
- Customized service and support

*Where wireless access is available. Additional access charges apply in some locations.

From handhelds to notebooks, enhancing your mobile lifestyle is easy with Dell. We offer over 70,000 products that address your needs for security, portable storage, data protection and more. Plus, your employees can purchase home PCs at special prices. To learn about our Employee Purchase Program, visit www.dell.com/fed/mobility04.
